WHAT IS MANAGEMENT?

Management is involved in every organizational situation, from the creation of a new idea to the final task necessary to accomplish the objective. The management concepts of planning, organizing, controlling, and leading are essential for success in today's global environment. Management has been described as "the art of getting things done through people." It is important to remember that management always involves the interaction of people and objectives as organizations attempt to meet their.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Management Program is a 124 hours degree program that provides the student with a well-rounded understanding of the operation and management of a business enterprise.
